

Lifestyle visuals, built from a phone shot and a written brief.

Every image in this portfolio was generated using AI — starting from a raw mobile phone photo of the product. No studio. No professional lighting. No photographer.

A structured prompt system controls the scene, model, lighting, atmosphere, and composition while preserving the product's exact identity. The result is campaign-ready imagery across lifestyle, editorial, UGC, and brand formats — produced at a fraction of traditional shoot cost.

Tools used: Nano Banana 2 (Google Gemini), Vertex AI, Claude Code, custom fidelity prompt schema.

11 PRODUCT VARIANTS	6 VISUAL FORMATS
100+ IMAGES PRODUCED	4 AI TOOLS IN STACK

OUTPUT: AI-GENERATED LIFESTYLE IMAGE — NANO BANANA 2

SYSTEM: LIVE COMMAND CENTER — BUILT WITH CLAUDE

HOW IT WORKS

From a phone shot on a table — to campaign-ready imagery.

The only real-world input is a mobile phone photo of the product — sometimes blurry, always imperfect. From there, a structured prompt system specifies everything else. The product identity is locked. The scene, lighting, and atmosphere are generated.

01 Raw Mobile Reference Product photographed with a phone at a fixed angle. No staging, no lighting rig — just the product. This is the identity anchor for every output.	02 Kraft Background Clean-Up A kraft background hero shot isolates the product cleanly — capturing color, frame shape, lens details, and finish accurately before generation.	03 Structured Prompt Schema Scene, model, lighting, atmosphere, and composition are specified in a JSON prompt schema. The AI generates. The prompt controls what it can, and cannot change.	04 Fidelity Gate & Review Every image passes a fidelity check — product details must match the reference. Approved images go directly into the content bank for ads, social, and web.

01 — LIFESTYLE

Outdoor, sport & atmospheric

12 IMAGES

Scene-driven lifestyle shots placing the product in context — surf breaks, hiking trails, urban walls, skate decks. Each scene is written as a brief specifying the environment, time of day, lighting quality, and subject position.

These are the formats that perform in paid social: scroll-stopping, real-feeling, product-visible.

02 — PORTRAIT

Editorial & studio portraits

13 IMAGES

On-model editorial shots — the AI model is generated to match the scene, not pasted in. Studio lighting, warm ambient, golden hour, and soft diffused treatments are all prompt-controlled. Every product variant gets a unique model portrait.

These work as hero images, PDP shots, and brand campaign anchors across website and paid channels.

03 — BRAND

Collection & campaign creative

24 IMAGES

Multi-product collection shots, bold statement formats, and feature callouts for campaign and social use. These are the brand-layer assets — they establish visual identity across a full product line rather than focusing on a single SKU.

Collection shots maintain consistent lighting and tone across 3–5 products in a single frame. Bold and callout formats are designed for paid social and website hero use.

04 — UGC STYLE

Wearing, holding & selfie formats

18 IMAGES

UGC-style images are designed to feel like real customer photos — someone wearing or holding the product in a natural setting. Casual framing, authentic environments, no studio polish. These formats perform strongly as social proof in ads and organic feed posts.

Each shot is controlled for product visibility — the frames must be clearly readable at small sizes — while the surrounding scene feels unscripted.

05 — PRODUCT

Hero shots & flatlay

14 IMAGES

Product-only images for website PDPs, ads, and e-commerce. Flatlay compositions, surface placements, and clean hero shots — all generated from the kraft reference with lighting and background specified in the prompt.

Formats include kraft-background hero, lifestyle surface, styled flatlay, and product-in-context placements.

06 — CREATIVE

Conceptual & atmospheric

8 IMAGES

When the brief calls for something beyond lifestyle — underwater scenes, maximalist graphic treatments, surreal composites. These are campaign hero pieces that lead with mood and story rather than product clarity.

Same pipeline, different prompt parameters: atmosphere and concept take priority while the product remains identifiable.